Who are we?

QueensHack is the first student-run hackathon in Queens, New York. Over a hundred high school students will come together at the historic Falchi Building (space provided to us with ❤️ from the Coalition4Queens) on April 23rd and spend 24 hours hacking websites, apps, and hardware projects. They will be networking with industry professionals, building amazing products with talented people and honing their entrepreneurial skills by shaping the product into something that will outgrow the hackathon.

Why should you sponsor?

A hackathon is a hub of talent. Whether one is an engineer, designer, entrepreneur or even a beginner, they will find people to complement their skills and learn from. QueensHack is a hackathon catered towards bright high school students. These hackers take time out of their busy academic life to come learn, network, and build revolutionary products; We, at QueensHack, believe that you helping them at such a young age will create a strong bond between them and your brand. They will look up to your engineers and aspire to work alongside them in the future. As a sponsor, you will have access to the best talent in tech - engaged hackers who will grow up loving to use and build with your technologies. Whether you intend to mentor, network, showcase your products/APIs, raise brand awareness, or even recruit for internships, we will make sure you achieve your goal.

How can you help?

- Direct donations - Let us use the donations where they're needed most.
- Send mentors - Volunteer engineers to help the hackers build and learn.
- Host workshops - Give the beginners a headstart to building amazing stuff.
- Provide hardware - Lend some hardware for hackers to base their hacks on.
- Provide internships - Let the hackers get professional experience!
- Sponsor meal(s) - Provide food to the hackers and keep them fueled.
- Sponsor prize(s) - Provide monetary or actual prizes to be awarded to top teams.

We need your help to create QueensHack a memorable experience for everyone! Please let us know if you have any questions or if you wish to schedule a phone/video call with our lead organizers.
